ly considered superior," she says.

She took a Gambian name, Naneh Jallow, meaning "mother," which the head of the village gave her, naming her after a revered woman who had died. "The fact that I spoke the language was really appreciated," Ann says, "and the better I learned it, the more fun I had."

The village was very religious, and so was her family. Although the Koran permits as many as four wives, her father had three, each with her own house and and each permitted four nights with her husband in his house. All the wives got along well with one another, Ann says.

"Women's Lib won't hit Gambia for a long time," she laughs, but she adds that multiple wives are an advantage for women in that society. "I'm all for polygamy in a place like the Gambia where the woman does so much of the work," she says.

There were 11 children in the compound all the time, of which only five were sired by the father, plus relatives coming in and out. All the women discipline the children, Ann says, but only the real mother can hit a child.

Building a Mosque. The father was a farmer, but at the time she was there he was in charge of construction for the building of a mosque. The village had a "big holy man" who had decreed no drumming or dancing at celebrations for marriage or the naming of a child. Villagers would give this man money, and he was to pray for them. Ann says he had thousands of dollars in Gambian currency, and thus an elaborate mosque was erected.

She has pictures of the finished white-washed stucco structure with its four minarets rising majestically above the thatched roof huts of the village. The whole thing was erected by hand labor, the only machine used being a single small hand-cranked cement mixer.

Highs and Lows. There were times when Ann grew tired of fetching her water and sweeping her dirt floor, when she would long for Americans and the old life she knew. "I was not homesick, but America-sick."

But this was countered by her warm feeling for her Gambian family to whom she now writes letters that are read by the teacher in the village. She enjoyed travelling about the country and visiting with other Peace Corps volunteers. There were 43 in Gambia, everyone with a different experience, and the government would have liked twice as many, Ann says.

Teaching health is the biggest use of Peace Corps volunteers in Gambia, but other projects include forestry, helping to set up cooperatives, book production and bee keeping. Education, once the prime work of volunteers, is no longer so, as Gambians themselves now fill this role.

Last Christmas Ann's parents, her brother and sister, all came to visit their Peace Corps daughter. It was the event of the year, Ann says, and all were given Gambian names. Ritual greeting is very important, and Ann was careful to go to every compound to announce her family's coming and to take them to the five head men upon arrival. There was a party with tea, cookies and popcorn, and thereafter villagers came continuously to pay a call and greet the Americans.

Before leaving Gambia, Ann became a trainer herself of a new group of Peace Corps health workers. She is enthusiastic about the Peace Corps and would like to recruit others as volunteers. She also would "definitely" like to go back to Africa "for whatever kind of jobs I can do."

But meanwhile she is looking at graduate school programs in cultural anthropology or in linguistics, having had such a marked success with the Wulu language. The experience of living in another culture was very valuable to her, and she thinks she may have gotten more out of it than the Gambians did.

To Ann the country is beautiful and the people have a great sense of humor. "If you go to Africa," she tells a visitor, "you'll learn how to laugh. The family is paramount, and who you marry, your relationships with other family are very important."

ETS Acted Fairly in Test Invalidation, Judge Rules in Suit Brought by Students

Educational Testing Service acted fairly when it invalidated the SAT scores of four students it believed had cheated when they took the test. The ruling came last Thursday in New Brunswick from Judge Richard S. Cohen of Middlesex County Superior Court, Chancery Division, after a three-week trial. There was no jury.

The four youths had sued ETS to keep the testing firm from invalidating the scores. Their attorney, George B. Gelman, said he was "absolutely shocked" at Judge Cohen's ruling. ETS' evidence was only "circumstantial," he declared, "a piece of statistical garbage."

He stated that his clients will appeal. ETS is restrained from informing the students' colleges of the trial's results for the next 15 days, pending the appeal.

Judge Cohen did not rule on the guilt or innocence of the four students. The only issue, he had said early in the proceedings, was whether ETS had cause to question the four scores, and had acted fairly when it invalidated them.

A member of the ETS staff said the ruling was "gratifying" because the judge endorsed ETS' procedures. ETS' own Board of Review "did operate independently, deliberately and conscientiously," the judge said, adding that he accepted the judgment of experts who explained and approved of the statistical method ETS uses to determine the probability of cheating. The method measures the number of identical wrong answers.

Of 85 questions on the verbal section of the SAT, all four youths agreed on 42 correct answers, according to their attorney, and three or more agreed on 17 incorrect answers. ETS' witnesses maintained that the probability of that much three-or-four-way agreement occurring by chance, is less than one in 300 billion.

"There were no departures from established ETS policies and procedures that unfairly affected the plaintiffs and the determination ETS made whether to question their scores," the judge wrote.

Township Will Sue DOT and Calton Homes For Violating I-92 Alignment Understanding

Princeton Township has filed two identically worded suits in the Appellate Division and the Law Division of the New Jersey Superior Court.

The actions have been taken on behalf of northeastern Township residents who are upset about a change in the Route 92 alignment that would cause the destruction of one home and require deep cuts and blasting in the diabase ridge along the border. However, the residents themselves have not as yet joined in the suit, nor initiated a suit of their own, as earlier this summer they had suggested they might.

The defendants in the Township actions are the N.J. Department of Transportation and Calton Homes Inc., which entered into an agreement on June 6 by which the developer agreed to convey 14 acres to the DOT for the sum of $1 for the construction of the proposed Route 92 freeway in the more southerly (closer to Princeton) portion of its lands. On June 13, Calton received preliminary and final subdivision and site plan approval from the Montgomery Township Planning Board for 400 townhouses on 74 acres of unimproved lands just north of Princeton Township.

The complaint, filed by Princeton Township on July 20, says that as early as 1972 the DOT had prepared and circulated to municipalities in the Somerset/Mercer County area affected by the proposed highway an alignment preservation map showing a proposed alignment for the freeway, should it be built at a future date. That alignment crossed a portion of the Calton Homes land.

In October, Calton inquired formally whether the DOT was going to acquire the property owned by the developer within the 92 preserved alignment. In December, the DOT served notice to Calton of its intention to purchase the property for the roadway and had 120 days within which to act. However, DOT allowed the statutory time limit to expire without purchasing the land from Calton, which in turn then made its application for preliminary site plan approval.

The complaint charges that DOT should have notified Princeton Township that it was not going to acquire this land, but that it did not, and that this was a "meaningful decision" that violated its own procedures and as well as promises to give residents and officials here "ample opportunity to comment and be heard" before any changes in the alignment.

Sewer Use Fees to Increase Under Revised Repair Policy

A new policy for sewer rehabilitation and maintenance and providing the necessary funds for continued monitoring of the sewers is memorialized in a resolution that came before Township Committee last Monday night.

An identical resolution is expected in the Borough, because it is the intention of officials in both municipalities to put forth a united front on the long-standing problem of sewer repair. Action on the resolution in the Township, however, was postponed until September 12, when all Committee members are expected to be back from vacation. Only three were present Monday.

The resolution begins by stating that "it is the desire" of the municipality "to set forth a clear written public policy statement as to the intention" of the municipality "to continue with a vigorous program of sewer rehabilitation and maintenance with regard to the publicly owned sanitary system within the Princeton community." It goes on to say that the Borough and Township "wish to eliminate all discharges except into the sewerage treatment plants."

The Sewer Operating Committee, it says, shall be guided by the principle that the annualized cost of removal of all discharges shall be equal to or less than the annual cost of treating the flow to be removed. To accomplish this removal of infiltration and inflow (I and I), and to maintain an acceptable I and I level, the SOC is directed to have a monitoring and evaluation program in operation continuously and issue reports on I and I annually.

Air Rights Ordinance Successfully Introduced By Council with Woodbridge Back, Bearse Gone

By a 3-2 vote — a mirror image of the 3-2 vote on the previous occasion — Borough Council last Thursday successfully introduced the ordinance granting air rights to Collins Development for construction of a four-story bridge across Palmer Square East.

The bridge is designed to link the present Nassau Inn with Collins' proposed addition to the Inn across Palmer Square East on the strip of land now used as a parking lot.

Public hearing will be Tuesday, September 13 at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall. If the ordinance passes, Collins will pay the Borough $120,000 over a five-year period for the right to build the bridge. The amount is almost double the $63,000 suggested by appraiser Joseph Martin.

The first attempt to introduce the ordinance was July 20, when introduction was defeated by a 3-2 vote. Since that date, Council member Richard Woodbridge has returned from vacation and on Thursday night, as expected, he voted "yes." Peter Bearse, who opposes the present air rights agreement, was absent from last Thursday's meeting — hence the reversed 3-2.

Richard Macgill and Barbara Hill once again voted in favor, and Robert McChesney and Joseph Blanc again registered their opposition.

When the public hearing comes around on September 13, all six Council members will be present. If they all vote the way they have so far, there will be a 3-3 tie. Mayor Robert W. Cawley has said that he will cast the tie-breaking vote in favor of granting the air rights.

Gerald Boswell, the chief citizen opponent of the ordinance, was present Thursday. As he has in the past, he declared that the law regarding air rights requires that

Sewer Use Fees

In addition, the two municipalities agree that both governments will provide sufficient funding to eliminate I and I and by-passing. The cost sharing between Borough and Township for their respective rehabilitation and maintenance work will be apportioned according to water consumption.

According to George Olexa, this directive is a policy that has never been stated before. It comes out of a series of informal meetings that have been held in the last several months with the two mayors, the two governing body representatives on the SOC (Councilman Richard Macgill and Committeeman Richard Schoch), J.B. Smith, chair of the SOC, the two engineers and occasionally the two administrators.

It will mean, Mr. Olexa says, that householders will pay a higher sewer use fee under this new policy, but he doesn't know yet how much higher. He has asked for data from the tax department and will have to study the numbers. It will, however, be a "dedicated source" of money for sewer repair, and a public meeting, just on sewers, is planned in October.

At the moment, Borough and Township have different methods of assessing sewer-related costs. In the Borough, Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority sewer treatment plant charges are paid by sewer use fees, but SOC operating and maintenance costs are financed by general revenue taxes, just like playgrounds, the library or other municipal services.

User Fees in Township. In the Township, all sewer-related costs, operating and maintenance as well as treatment, are paid for by user fees. In the recent sewer ban temporarily imposed by the state, Arnold Schiffman of the state Department of Environmental Protection had expressed concern that there has been no guaranteed source of money for maintenance, Mr. Olexa said.

The SOC's 1983 budget is $270,000 with the Borough paying $77,000, the Township $143,00 and the University $50,000. This money is used for making inspections, paying salaries and fixing pumps; for trucks that unclog stoppages, chemicals, emergency repairs like manhole lids and office supplies. The SOC operating budget does not pay, on a capital basis, for fixing sewers.

The Borough and Township have together recently contributed $1 million to the sewer rehabilitation trust fund, to which developers also pay to obtain sewer gallonage for their development projects. Developers must pay for the removal of eight gallons of I and I for every gallon of sewer allocation needed by the project.

Township Suit

Princeton Township asks judgment voiding the June 6 agreement and directing the DOT to "make meaningful effort to acquire from the United States Department of Transportation, Federal Highway Administration acquisition funds for the Route 92 freeway preserved alignment." It also asks that Carlton Homes be enjoined from constructing any dwelling within the preserved alignment.

Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer says that the defendants now have an opportunity to file their answers to the complaint. He expects the discovery phase to begin in the fall. One of the complaints was lodged in the Law Division, he explains, because that is a trial court which gives the Township/Plaintiff the opportunity to subpoena DOT records and find out what led to the decision to let the time elapse without acquiring the land needed for Route 92 along the preserved alignment.

Italian-American Sportsmen's Club Protests Committee's Plans to Change Noise Ordinance

The leadership of the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club came to Township Hall last Monday night to protest that its side of a neighborhood noise controversy had not been heard and to urge Committee not to make major revisions to the Township's noise ordinance.

Joseph Tufano, president of the organization, wanted to know why there had been no notification to the Italian-American Sportsmen of last week's Township Committee meeting at which possible changes in the noise ordinance had been discussed in work session and Frank Subjack of Journey's End Lane had been present to give his side of the controversy.

Mayor Winthrop S. Pike said that Mr. Subjack had called him to discuss the problem and that he had asked Mr. Subjack to come to the meeting. "Perhaps I was remiss in not asking you at the same time, but all we were going to do was discuss whether or not some changes in the ordinance might be made," the Mayor said.

Waving a copy of last week's Town Topics, Mr. Tufano said heatedly, "That meeting did some damage to the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club. The things that are said about us in the newspaper from that meeting are hurting us. We are already in court; why did you have to go and do this to us in a meeting. It is hurting us."

Mayor Pike told Mr. Tufano that he would have plenty of opportunity to state his objections to any ordinance that is proposed. The mayor outlined for him the procedure by which an ordinance makes its way from "introduction on first reading," to publication in the newspaper, to public hearing (usually two weeks after introduction) before final adoption. In addition the amended ordinance — if indeed there are amendments forthcoming, the Mayor said — will be available for interested members to read.

But Mr. Tufano was not mollified. "When people read that they think we are some crazy kind of jazz place," he complained. "This is our livelihood. We never had any complaint until Mr. Subjack moved into town. The damage (to our organization) has already been done without the ordinance (being changed)."

Mayor Sympathetic. Mayor Pike interjected that he was somewhat sympathetic to Mr. Subjack's complaints because he himself could hear "the noise — music, whatever you call it" a half a mile away. The mayor reiterated the procedures for public input and said he would welcome Mr. Tufano's comments at the appropriate time. "We're here to serve you — I'm not out to get you," he said.

Dan Tamasi, vice president of the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club and a Terhune Road resident, also urged Committee not to make changes in the existing ordinance. Acknowledging that "sometimes we have a noisy band," and that there had been two complaints, one of which "was thrown out of court for lack of evidence," Mr. Tamasi said, "We don't need this problem either, but we need the revenue.

"If you rewrite the ordinance you are going to hurt us; you are going to make us responsible." The Italian-American Sportsmen's Club pays the Township $15,000 a year in property taxes, he noted. It has 150-200 members who pay a small fee to belong, but who can't afford the high dues that would be required to support the building, he said, nor could the club afford the air conditioning and acoustical tile that Mr. Subjack is suggesting as a way of keeping the sound within the building.

"Instead of us paying all that money, why doesn't he close his window and turn on his air conditioning," Mr. Tamasi suggested. "He knew we were there when he moved in."

Noting that the Township is presently enforcing the existing noise ordinance, he pleaded with Committee to "think how you're going to hurt other people" before changing the law. "Don't knock us down; we've been here too long," he said.

"We will try to deal with it in the fairest way possible," Mayor Pike said.

Monday's agenda was a short one, and Committeeman Richard Schoch and Committeewoman Barbara Cantrill were present, in addition to the Mayor. Committee agreed to another extension of a Nassau Capital performance bond to October 30 and to consider reduction in the amount of the bond as certain unfinished items in the development on Bouvant Drive are completed.

Another matter involving the utility pole on Harrison Street that supplies electricity and telephone service to the Princeton Bank's drive-in facility in the Princeton Shopping Center was resolved to the satisfaction of William T. Sutphin, attorney for the bank.

Committeeman Richard Schoch went on record as being opposed to "legalized games of chance" on Sundays. "Legalized games of chance" are car raffles for charitable organizations, as well as pinball machines, and the Borough permits them to take place on Sunday as well as every other day. Committee was considering in work session whether or not to change its ordinance to conform to the Borough's, particularly since many fund raising events are held on Sundays.

LSD PUSHER CHARGED

With Possession of Drugs. A Lawrence Township resident, arrested on Nassau Street Sunday night and charged with possession of drugs, has been sent to Mercer County Jail in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Awaiting action by a Mercer County Grand Jury is Tadeusz A. Skwarek 2d, 31, of Quaker Bridge Road. Police here reported that Skwarek is also a fugitive from Mercer County Court for failing to appear for sentencing on a charge of receiving stolen property. He was also wanted on a contempt of court charge issued by the Mercer County Domestic Relations Court.

Skwarek, who initially told police his name was Kenneth J. Mitchell and he had no address, was arrested on Nassau Street by Sgt. William Clark and Patrolmen William Nathan and Donald Dawson. Police had received an anonymous telephone tip from a caller reporting a man walking on Nassau accompanied by a woman pushing a baby carriage was trying to sell drugs.

When Skwarek was apprehended a short time later, police found 93 tablets and 10 powder blue pills in his possession. According to Capt. John J. Bellow, Skwarek admitted selling tablets but insisted that it was just paper; that he was trying to fool his buyers into thinking they were purchasing drugs.

Police were not fooled, however. They conducted a field test of the tablets at the scene. The tablets and pills were later sent to a police lab for analysis but Capt. Bellow said, "We're fairly certain the tabs are LSD and we think the pills are amphetamines."

Skwarek's real identity was uncovered the following day by Det. Randy Sutton who was assigned to investigate the case. There were no charges against the woman accompanying Skwarek.

Attempted Theft. A former Princeton resident, Charlton Houston, 25, who has no known address, was arrested last week and charged with attempted theft. He was issued a summons and later released.

Houston, whom police said had been drinking, was first warned by police, after he had allegedly been harrassing customers at the Princeton Shopping Center. A half-hour later, he was arrested by Ptl. John Clausen when he allegedly attempted to steal a purse from an elderly Trenton resident as she was sitting on a bench at the Center.

Quieter, Please. Susan Sharpless of Plainsboro and Mary Murphy of Trenton were issued a summons by Township police at 3 Sunday morning for playing loud music.

The two had been warned by police several times before, after neighbors had complained. Police said the loud music was coming from a party at a Moore Street home.

New Zip Code

If you get your mail deliveries through the Palmer Square branch of Princeton's post office, you now have a new zip code — 08542.

The new zip applies to all addresses in the five foot-routes around Palmer Square and to all individuals and business firms who rent boxes in the Palmer Square post office.

Anyone writing to Town Topics should now use the 08542 zip.

Cards have been mailed to everyone affected by the change. No card means no change, and continued use of 08540.

The post office is working its way along the number row: 08540 is still the standard Princeton zip; 08541 is Educational Testing Service; 08542 is the new zip; 08544 is Princeton University.

08543? No occupant. So far.

SIGNING THE TREATY OF PARIS? Not quite, but certainly planning for the bicentennial of that signing. A three-day Treaty of Paris Bicentennial celebration, commemorating the treaty that ended the Revolutionary War, will be held October 14-16 under the sponsorship of Princeton's Chamber of Commerce. C. Ellen Hodges, executive director of the Chamber, confers with Leonard A. Wood, vice-chairman of The Gallup Organization and Dr. George H. Gallup, chairman of the board of the Organization and head of the Treaty of Paris celebrations.

the car in which they were riding ran off Route 206 struck a tree.

The driver, Kim Page, 17, of Trenton, was issued a summons for careless driving by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord after she told him she fell asleep at the wheel. Her 1978 sedan, which was a total loss, left the roadway some 300 feet from Valley Road about 40 minutes past midnight Sunday.

Ms. Page was treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the face.

Also injured were four passengers — all residents of Monmouth Street in Trenton. Martin Alicea, 17, sustained head injuries, while Anna Alicea, 34, was treated for a concussion at the Medical Center. Less seriously injured were Elvis Alicea, 17, and Eva Alicea, 9.

Intersection Crash. Early last week, two cars collided at the intersection of Stuart Road and the Great Road, bringing injury to three.

One of the drivers, 22-year-old George R. Ackerman Jr. of 6 Birch Avenue, Pennington, was issued a summons for failing to stop for the Stuart Road stop sign by Ptl. John Seeley Jr. The second driver, Anthony Gaylord, 65, 354 Ewing Street, veered left in an unsuccessful attempt to avoid the Ackerman car. He and a 65-year-old passenger from New York City were treated at the Medical Center for bruises and contusions; Mr. Ackerman was treated at the hospital for lacerations.

Mr. Ackerman told Ptl. Seeley that he didn't see the stop sign. His small foreign car left 30 feet of skid marks prior to the collision.

5-Car Mishap. Five cars, all in a line, were involved in an accident shortly after five Friday on Harrison Street. Three of the drivers received minor injuries.

Three cars had been stopped in line, waiting for the light to change at the intersection of Nassau Street. Two other cars were approaching at about 5 to 10 miles an hour, according to the drivers, when the last car hit the car in front of it and pushed it into the rear of the third car. The third car was pushed into car No. 4 which in turn struck car No. 5. All but one of the five cars were able to drive away from the scene.

The last driver, whose car triggered the multi-crash, Josephine F. DiDonato, 17, 166 Princeton-Hightstown Road, was ticketed by Ptl. William Nathan for careless driving.

The four drivers told Ptl. Nathan that Miss DiDonato had told them after the crash that her brakes didn't work. Ptl. Nathan tested them after the mishap, however, and noted in his report that he found them to be working properly. He did not see any skid marks at the scene, he added.

Miss DiDonato hit her chin on her car's steering wheel but refused medical aid. Kathleen Filipponi, 25, of Trenton, the driver of car two, struck the back of her head on the seat of her car at impact and also scratched her left arm, and Holly B Maxwell, 23, 4-12 Deer Creek Drive, Plainsboro, the driver of car No. 3, struck her cheekbone against the steering wheel. Both also refused medical aid.

The other two drivers were Diane Ha, 31 Merion Place, Lawrenceville, and Howie B. Kiser, 55, of Trenton.

THEFT REPORT

Stereo Equipment Stolen. Stereo and cassette equipment worth approximately $3,500 was stolen last week from a Carnahan Place home.

There were no signs of forced entry. Police said that three other persons — two employees of the victim who were helping him move furniture and a maid — had access to the home. Police place the theft between 1:10 Monday morning when it was reported and 7 p.m. the previous Tuesday.

Four wire-wheel hubcaps valued at $100 each were stolen from a Buick Riviera which was parkcd for an hour Monday afternoon in the Princeton Shopping Center lot. Police identifed the victim as a Hopewell Township resident.

A $209 stereo receiver was stolen from the living room of a Red Oak Row home early Friday morning, following a party there which was attended by approximately 100 people. The hostess called police when she discovered the receiver missing at 2:20 in the morning.

A rotary lawn mower valued at $200, left out in the open, was stolen between Friday afternoon and Sunday morning from the rear yard of the victim, a Pelham Street resident. Stolen last week was a 10-speed Peugeot bicycle which had been chain- locked to a rail in front of 14 Nassau Street. The chain had been cut to remove the $220 bike, police said.

After a resident of Magie Apartments off Faculty Road had left her purse last week in a booth at the Haagen-Dazs Ice Cream Shoppe on Spring Street, she returned a half-hour later. She was too late: her leather purse containing $50 was missing.

CAR IS DISABLED

By Engine Fire. A 1977 sedan operated by George Sader of Trenton had to be towed Monday morning after its engine caught fire on S. Harrison Street near the foot of the Harrison Street Bridge.

Five firemen from Engine No. 1 extinguished the blaze after Ptl. John Petrone Jr. was unable to contain the fire with his patrol car extinguisher. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Borough police this week received another report of a car vandalized in the Palmer Square lot off Chambers Street.

The victim, a resident of Palmer Square, told police that a tire valued at $71.02 had been slashed and a $13.25 wiper arm torn off.

DRUNK DRIVER FINED

In Traffic Court. In Borough traffic court Monday night, Neil M. Munroe, 21, Harris Road, was fined $265 and had his license revoked for six months for driving while intoxicated. Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. also fined Mr.

Learn How to Park

If you're going to take a behind-the-wheel driving test any time after September 1, you will have to know how to do parallel parking.

Last year, parallel parking was dropped from the road test by the Division of Motor Vehicles as part of an experiment to speed up the processing of new licenses — there was a backlog of 21,000 people waiting for their tests.

And parallel parking was regarded as less important than it used to be because there are so many shopping center parking lots.

But the Division decided the parking procedure is a good way to measure a new driver's skill and ability to control the car. Control skills learned while you practice parallel parking far outweigh the few minutes saved by eliminating the maneuver from the test, according to Clifford W. Snedeker, director of the Division.

Parallel parking is part of the driver's license test in 42 states.

For Washington March. The Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament (CND) has reserved 15 air-conditioned buses to take area residents to the August 27 March for Jobs, Peace, and Freedom in Washington, D.C.

Reservations, for which the deadline is Friday, August 19, can be made by sending or bringing the round-trip fare of $20 ($15 for Coalition members) to the CND office at 40 Witherspoon Street, telephone 924-5022. Among the national leaders calling for the march are Coretta Scott King, Dr. King's widow; Bishop James Armstrong, President of the National Council of Churches; Rev. Benjamin Hook, Director of the NAACP; and other well-known figures from the peace, labor, women's and human rights movement.

Numerous other groups across New Jersey are also organizing to send buses to Washington, including Newark Mayor Kenneth Gibson's office, NAACP, Communication Workers of America, most religious denominations, and others. Those wanting to leave from Trenton should contact Lodi Clark at 394-7725.

NewStage Ends Second Successful Season With Superb Production of Pinter's 'Betrayal'

Adulterous love affairs have furnished playwrights and novelists with plots for centuries. Usually the story is told from beginning to end.

In his play, "Betrayal," however, Harold Pinter tells it from end to beginning. "Betrayal" is the season's fourth and final offering of NewStage at Intime. It may be seen at Murray Theatre this Thursday, Friday and Saturday (8 p.m.) and Sunday (2:30 p.m.).

Backwards is not necessarily the best way to tell a story. If it were, it would be tried more often. But in this play, Pinter creates tension on two levels. By showing the cold ashes of the love affairs at the very beginning, he gives subsequent scenes which show the start and progress of the affair a sort of rueful tint — we know more than the play's characters do what it will lead to.

And by having the betrayed husband know of the affair long before the betrayer (who is also his best friend) find out that he knows, crosscurrents between the three principals are set in motion that are fascinating to watch on the stage.

THE PINTER STYLE: Martin Hilsen plays Jerry, the man who is having an affair with his best friend's wife, in "Betrayal," the Harold Pinter drama now on stage at Murray Theatre in a NewStage production.

Emma is Center. The center of this triangle is Emma (Fran Whalen), who is the wife of Robert (Steve Horner) and the mistress of Jerry (Martin Hilson). Of the nine scenes, five are between Emma and Jerry (though Robert appears briefly in Scene 9), two are between Jerry and Robert, and one crucial scene — superlatively played by both actors — is between Robert and Emma, in a hotel room in Venice.

Only in Scene 4 do the three share the stage, and it is a scene of intense but largely unarticulated drama. Even a seemingly trivial conversation between the two men, as to why boy-babies cry more than girl-babies, becomes a sort of unspoken duel between Robert, who knows, and Jerry, who still thinks his secret is safe.

A caution about the sequence of events: the nine scenes encompass six different years, and they move backwards from 1977 to 1968. But when two or more scenes occur in the same year, they follow a normal sequence. Thus Scene 1 occurs before Scene 2 (both in 1977), and Scene 5 occurs before Scenes 6 and 7 (all in 1973).

Pinter has few equals in writing natural dialogue, especially among people who seem more absorbed in their own thoughts, or in hiding their own thoughts, than in what the other person is saying. Repetitions, non sequiturs, long pauses are part of the Pinter verbal arsenal.

Director Veronica Brady perfectly understands the Pinter style. This is authentic dialogue. Often the delayed responses, the silent glances, and the moments when nothing happens are as eloquent as the words spoken.

Homework Done. Playing British characters, the cast has done its homework on English pronunciation and speech rhythm. So completely natural is it that this reviewer had some difficulty in catching many of Jerry's words and some of Emma's. Robert, who has little opportunity for intimate small talk, is gratifyingly audible.

Miss Whalen is splendid as Emma. Whatever emotion she has to convey — and her emotions change often depending on the situation and whom she is with — she is thoroughly convincing. Hilson makes an attractive Jerry. He is a charming egotist, self-assured when the going is smooth, inclined to panic in the face of unwelcome surprises.

Horner is incisive as Robert. His questions are often double-edged, with a hidden purpose lying behind innocent remarks. A persuasive prosecuting attorney type. Giovanni Eusepi contributes authentic bits as a barman and an Italian waiter.

The set design by Lisa Cameron is a simple unit which serves for various interiors with the change of one or two of its elements. It is self-effacing and serviceable. Lighting and sound are by Brita Meng. Properties are coordinated by Daren Browne.

Possibly some theatre-goers might be put off by the story of "Betrayal" or may not be fond of Pinter. If they yield to these doubts, they will miss a solidly crafted production of an original and provocative play. "Betrayal" happily joins "Bus Stop," "Talking With," and "March of the Falsettos" in a highly successful second season which NewStage at Intime has brought to Princeton.

'REDS'

As Single Feature. Because "Reds" is a long movie, it is being shown as a single feature on the Kresge Auditorium screen as the next offering in the Summer Cinema series. The Warren Beatty epic will play through this Sunday with screenings each evening at 7:30. The auditorium is on Washington Road in the Frick Chemical building.

The film, which gave Beatty a 1981 Oscar as Best Director, follows the American communist John Reed, author of "Ten Days that Shook the World," on his journeys through revolutionary Russia in 1917. With him is Louise Bryant, who later became his wife, and the film records her own work and struggles to achieve emancipation and fulfillment. Diane Keaton plays the part.

As the story unfolds, the film shows Reed in Pancho Villa's Mexico, Emma Goldman's Greenwich Village, Eugene O'Neill's Provincetown, France and — finally — Russia, where Reed and Louise cover the Bolshevik uprising.

Others in the cast are Jack Nicholson as the young O'Neill, with whom Louise has an affair; Maureen Stapleton as Emma Goldman and the novelist Jerzy Kosinski as a Bolshevik bureaucrat.

A Greek chorus of 32 witnesses present testimony and recollections about the Reeds. Among these actual personages are Rebecca West, Henry Miller and Adela

In Showcase Production. The first authorized community theatre presentation of "The Elephant Man" will be the last offering of the Shakespeare '70 Summer Festival. The play will open this Saturday at Artists Showcase Theatre, Trenton, for a run of three weekends.

Curtain-time will be 8:30. Reservations are required and may be made by calling 392-1704 between noon and 8. The theatre is at 1150 Indiana Avenue, off the Route One Circle.

The production will feature the visuals designed for the original Broadway production, and will feature Bob Grayce as John Merrick, victim of the disfiguring disease that made him a social outcast in the London of the 19th century.

Steven Nelson will portray Dr. Treves, the man who saves the Elephant Man and Cathy Lyons will be Mrs. Kendall, the actress who brings the deformed man to the attention of London society. Peter McKenzie, Debbie Lawler, Tom Causey, Tom Curbishley, Anita Levy, Diane Gaston and Ed Wytovich are also in the production.

Gerald E. Guarnier is the designer and director.

COMEDY TONIGHT

Laurel 'n' Hardy, Keaton. "Bring popcorn!" And one of your family's favorite dishes, with enough to share. Coffee, tea and juice will be provided. It's a kind of dinner theatre, but the offering is a pair of classic comedies starring Laurel and Hardy and Buster Keaton.

Screening and dining will be in the Christ the King Lutheran Church, Route 27, Kendall Park, next Thursday, August 18 from 6 to 8 p.m.

Comedies booked for the evening are "The Music Box," with Laurel and Hardy, and Buster Keaton's "Cops." The film program is scheduled for the third Thursday in each month. Detailed information is available from 393-3440 or 201-297-1200.

ADVENTURE IN FILM

At Rocky Hill Library. The Mary Jacobs Library in Rocky Hill will present two adventure films on Thursday, August 16 at 7:30 p.m.

"Mt. McKinley Hang Glide" shows four flyers leaping off the 10,000-foot drop of the highest mountain in North America. "Voyage of the Brigantine Yankee" depicts a sail along the Galapagos and Pitcairn Islands, Polynesia, Melanesia and New Guinea. The color films will run for 70 minutes.

This program is free and open to the public. For further information, call the library at 924-7073.

$7,000 IN GRANTS

McCarter, Ballet. Grants totalling $7,000 have been awarded by Western Electric to four cultural organizations in the area, including McCarter Theatre and the Princeton Ballet Society. The other two are the Trenton Symphony Orchestra and the Friends of the New Jersey State Museum.

The grants were distributed through the Western Electric Fund, a non-profit organization that administers financial contributions for educational, cultural and charitable purposes. Robert P. Claggett, general manager of Western Electric's Engineering Research Center in Hopewell, presented the grants to McCarter and the museum's Friends, and Don K. Conover, general manager of WE's Corporate Education Center, also in Hopewell, distributed the grants to the Ballet Society and the symphony orchestra.

"We used several criteria in selecting the four recipients," said Robert W. Cawley, assistant manager at the Research Center and co-ordinator of the program. "The major one is that the organization be an outstanding arts operation with statewide or national impact." Mr. Cawley is mayor of the Borough of Princeton.

The Western Electric Fund also gives grants in the fields of education, health and welfare. The two Western Electric Centers also contribute money to local cultural, civic and social groups through their Manager's Fund. Mr. Claggett explained that the Manager's Fund enables Western Electric to vary the kinds of groups receiving grants, so that each year the corporation can cover a broad range of organizations.

"Bridge" Vote Praised.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Friends of Princeton Open Space has been organized to preserve as much of Princeton's fast-vanishing open areas as possible — consistent with legitimate growth needs.

Open space includes farmland, wildlife preserves, parks and floodplains. Open space also includes urban areas suitable for public use, such as plazas and squares linked to redevelopment efforts. These have the potential for adding to a community's supply of open space, even as new buildings rise nearby.

Because of our concern for all types of open space, the Friends commend the Borough Council for rejecting the sale of air rights to the Collins Development Corporation (CDC). By a narrow 3 to 2 vote, Mssrs. Bearse, Blanc and Martin prevailed of the CDC proposal which, for the trivial sum of $120,000, jeopardizes public open space throughout Princeton.

It is simply not possible, consistent with common sense to label the Collins hotel wing over a road as a "bridge" — more appropriately described by Ulrich Frank as "monstrosity."(Mr. Ulrich is chairman of the environmental design review committee.) A bridge suggests an open, public way, not an enclosed lobby for hotel rooms.

If ultimately approved, what is to stop every developer from demanding equal rights to do the same over public roads, sidewalks or parks, so long as they are labelled as "bridges?" The simple fact is that the CDC "bridge" is a test case for the future of open space in Princeton, especially the Borough.

The Friends also believe that the amount of public open space within the project itself has been greatly overstated. By ordinance "common open space available for public use" must comprise at least 25 percent of the area. Only by designating virtually every square foot of land not covered by a building has CDC been able to reach this figure. For example, it is specious to label the Terrace Cafe as open space. How many strollers will be seated with their sack lunches while paying customers wait in line for tables?

As stated by Barbara Sigmund, truly public and usable open space comes to about 8 percent of the project. This is a far cry from what the public was promised and rightly expects in this massive project, which will change the face of Princeton.

In conclusion, the Friends believe that it is time to speak out on the open space consequences of the CDC-Palmer Square project. The "bridge" mocks the English language and creates a dangerous precedent, while the legal requirement of 25 percent set aside as public open space has not been met. We congratulate the vote of the Council and hope that others will join in seeking an even stronger majority when next it comes up, as surely it will.

Concert a Success.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Princeton-Mercer Chapter of the New Jersey State Symphony Orchestra League would like to offer a belated thank you to all of the wonderful supporters who made the July 3 POPS Concert an unqualified success.

Because of the loyal communal participation shown by Princeton University, the Chamber of Commerce, the Jaycees, the Township and Borough Police Departments, countless civic organizations, businesses, professional groups, and friends, we will be able to continue to sponsor youth concerts in our Mercer County schools.

TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE 1963 MARCH FOR JOBS AND FREEDOM A MARCH FOR

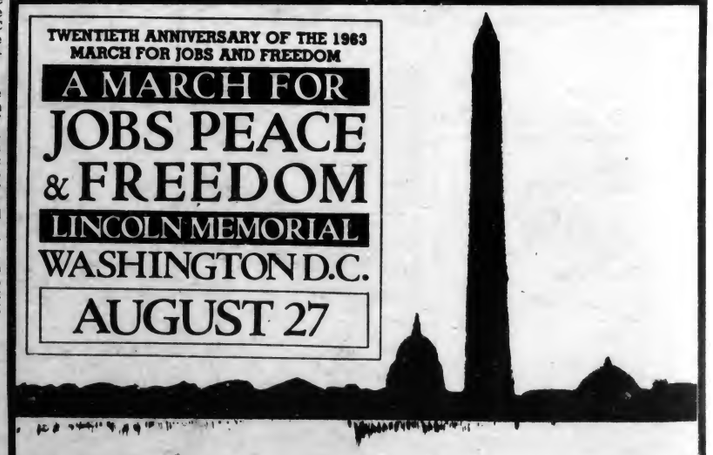
LINCOLN MEMORIAL
WASHINGTON D.C.
AUGUST 27



On August 27, hundreds of thousands of Americans will gather in Washington, D.C. to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of the 1963 March on Washington and Martin Luther King's historic "I Have a Dream" speech. This event, co-chaired by Coretta Scott King and Dr. Joseph Lowery, will protest three critical conditions in our society — an escalating arms race; massive unemployment and the denial of basic human rights. The Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament believes that we must act on these problems now, to keep the dream alive. Please make your bus reservation with the Coalition by August 19. The round trip fare is $15.00 for Coalition members, $20.00 for non-members; subsidies are available. Call or write to

NJ TRANSIT FARES UP

Bus, Rail. Fare increases for approximately 300,000 bus and train riders in New Jersey have been approved by the NJ Transit board of directors. The fare increase is about 8 percent.

Interstate bus fares, now 90 cents for the first zone and 35 cents for each succeeding zone, will now be 30 cents for the first zone, and 45 for each succeeding zone. Bus commuters who travel between New Jersey and other states, may now buy a monthly commuter pass with a 30 percent discount based on the price of 40 one-way trips. This is the first time long-distance bus commuters have had the same discount that train riders have had, according to NJ Transit.

In addition, there will be 10 and 12-trip commuter tickets valid for 14 and 60 days respectively, offering discounts of 20 and five percent. To encourage off-peak travel, NJ Transit is offering a round trip, non-rush-hour ticket at 10 percent discount.

These increases and the new offerings will go into effect October 1.

BACK ON PLANNING BOARD: William H. Walker II, who has already served more than a decade on the Planning Board ('69-'79) and was on the old Borough Planning Board for six months before that, preparing the way for the regionalized board, will take a seat on the board once again. Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley has appointed him to fill the vacancy left by Sydney Taggart, who is moving away from Princeton. A practicing architect, Mr. Walker was a member of Borough Council from 1959 to 1969.

Train riders will pay 80 cents instead of 75, for the first zone and 55 instead of 50 cents for each succeeding zone. The average fare increase for train riders is 9.6 percent. The increases go into effect September 1.

For intrastate bus riders, the basic one-zone fare increase is 5 cents: from 70 to 75, with each succeeding zone 25 cents, increased from 20.

The Bus Card monthly pass, allowing unlimited rides in the first zone, will cost $28 a month, a $3 increase. The Bus Card program has been expanded to cover multi-zone trips. Card users save 25 percent over regular one-way fare. After 37 trips, rides are, in essence, free.

The average fare increase for intrastate riders is 8 percent. Increases will go into effect September 1.

The next meeting will take place on Tuesday, August 23, from 7 to 9, at the Princeton Community Homemakers' office, 55 Princeton-Highstown Road, east of Clarksville Road.

CANNING, FREEZING

Learn How. Pam Mount of Terhune Orchards will demonstrate her "tried and true' methods of canning and freezing on Friday at 10:30 a.m. at the Orchards.

The class is free, and timely. Peaches are now at their peak of harvest at the Orchards, Mrs. Mount says, and can be frozen or canned for the winter months. All are welcome.

ACTIVITIES LISTED

By Creative Center. Elizabeth Starr Hill, director of Princeton Creative Center, has announced that the Center's fall activities will take place at Morven, 55 Stockton Street.

Lectures and workshops in various fields of interest will be offered. All are designed to inspire creativity and to provide the technical knowledge needed for effective self-expression.

Among the programs planned is a series of slide presentations and lectures by Thomas Southerland, director of Princeton Nature Tours, and Margot Southerland. They will speak on the topic "Learning to Look at Nature," relating the subject to nature photography, as well as to increased enjoyment of the outdoors.

Princeton Creative Center will also present "An Evening with Till Miller, the Plant Lady." Ms. Miller, whose indoor gardening techniques have won wide recognition, will discuss the art of designing with plants and will offer specific suggestions for installing indoor gardens.

Elizabeth S. Hill

Two eight-week writing workshops will be offered. "Creative Writing — Fiction and Non-Fiction," will be taught by Veronica Muller. Ms. Muller developed Research Ink at the Princeton Public Library, an after-school program to stimulate originality in research. "Advanced Fiction Writing" will be conducted by Elizabeth Starr Hill, author of many books and magazine stories. Mrs. Hill will also offer individual manuscript critique service.

William L. Wise of Princeton was recognized as a newly elected Exalted Ruler at the 119th convention of the Grand Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, held in Honolulu. He was elected by his lodge in March for a one year term.

Bruce Finnie, 228 Western Way, who has served as registrar of Princeton University since 1969, has been appointed director of the university's Office of Administrative Services and Information Systems (ASIS) effective September 1.

In addition to providing increasingly important data processing and information services to the university's administrative offices, the director of ASIS oversees Alumni Records and Mailing Services, the Audio Visual Center and Language Laboratory, and Printing Services.

Mr. Finnie will divide his time between the Registrar's Office and ASIS until a new registrar is appointed. He succeeds Patricia Skarulis who recently was named vice chancellor for information systems at Duke University.

Mr. Finnie, a native of Memphis, Tenn., was graduated magna cum laude from Harvard University in 1956. He did graduate work in Harvard's Department of Social Relations and received his Ph.D. in 1966. He was a research sociologist with the Harvard Student Study for 10 years before coming to Princeton in 1969 to head a new university-wide registrar's office and to computerize its operations.

In addition to serving as registrar, Mr. Finnie is a lecturer in American Studies and has conducted courses in "Sports in American Society" and "The Sociology of Sport."

Lisa Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Blair of 85 Balcort Drive, will be a member of the freshman class at Princeton University this fall and is expected to be a candidate for a spot on the Tiger field hockey and women's lacrosse teams.

She earned two letters as a forward in field hockey and three as third home in lacrosse at Princeton High School. Her 1982 field hockey team were co-champions of the Colonial Valley Conference and also won the Central Jersey Group II championship. The 1983 lacrosse team was runner up in the New Jersey State finals.

Joseph K Lin, son of Mrs. Betty L. Lin of Princeton, has graduated from the College of the Univesity of Chicago. He received a B.B. degree with a major in physics. Mr. Lin is a graduate of Princeton High School.

Dickinson College has accepted the following area students as members of the class of 1987:

Patricia A. Mullaney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Mullaney, of Dutchtown-Zion Road, Belle Mead; Susan M. Tiedge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Tiedge, of Steinmetz Road, Belle Mead; Richard S. A. Lipman, son of Mr. Leo A. Mordhorst, of Hopewell; Shirley M. Santiago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Juan G. Santiago, 25 Fieldstone Road, Princeton; and John P. Szakats, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Szakats, 53 Van Wyck Drive, Princeton.

The 1983 David Sarnoff Awards for Outstanding Technical Achievement, RCA's top technical honors, have been conferred upon 18 scientists and engineers -- including 11 from this area -- for major achievements in solid state devices, color TV receivers, picture tubes and a microwave power amplifier for use in space.

George L. Schnable of RCA Laboratories in Princeton was honored "for contributions to improvement in the reliability of solid state devices."

Air Rights

such a bridge connect properties belonging to the same owner. For its own purposes, Collins had set up three corporations as owners of its Palmer Square holdings.

The Borough's attorney, Edwin Schmierer, told Council that, on the basis of talks he has had with Collins' lawyers, the three pieces will all be together under one Collins name by the date of the public hearing.

"If Collins can't prove they own all the property by September 13," said Mayor Cawley, "we won't vote to adopt the ordinance."

Mr. Boswell has also proposed that the Borough hold a referendum on the granting of air rights.

"I'm not in favor of a referendum," the mayor told reporters at his Monday press conference. "It's the typical tactic of someone trying to delay or trying not to have it happen."

He added that in his view, the Borough's case for granting air rights grows "stronger and stronger as Mr. Boswell raises various questions."

Two days before, the Planning Board voted unanimously to adopt the findings of fact related to its approval of Collins' plans. Opponents have ten days to appeal, counting from the date the announcement of adoption is published. Pearl Pillon, the Planning Board's administrator, said she planned to have the announcement published this Wednesday. Unless Collins' attorneys achieved an earlier publication date, this Wednesday will start the ten-day interval.

An appeal from this Planning Board action must be taken to Borough Council, which has the right to approve the findings of fact, reject or modify them or send them back to the Planning Board.

Mr. Boswell has said that he probably will not appeal the Planning Board's action because his chief concern is the air rights.

If he decides to fight the granting of air rights, he must file his appeal within 45 days after published notice that Council has adopted the air rights agreement. That appeal, known as a "prerogative writ lawsuit," or a challenge to the final action of a governing body, would be mnade to Judge Paul Levy of Superior Court.

Mayor Cawley has estimated that the Borough would have to pay about $1500 in legal fees to oppose Mr. Boswell in Superior Court.

Council has also learned that it must make a slight change in the schedule worked out with Collins to pay the $120,000. Although the agreement specifies a six-year payment schedule, the state apparently requires five, but the agreement is so drawn that this means the shift of only a day or two into the appropriate year.

Students' Suit

This spring, ETS sent each of the students a form letter stating that close agreement in the test answers of the previous year, suggested the four had been copying from each other. Later, ETS changed its approach and charged that the students had advance copies of the test.

The four, students at Millburn High School, were members of the school's tennis team. They were given permission to take the test earlier than other students because the test date conflicted with a tennis match. Later, another student accused them of cheating

In its letter, ETS said the test results would be invalidated, and colleges notified unless the students could prove they had not cheated. They were also offered the opportunity to take the SATs again, ask to have their scores cancelled or appeal to an impartial arbitrator.

About 2,000 students each year receive such a letter, ETS said. The four students who sued are James Denberg, Richard Becker, Lloyd Berkowitz and Stephen Haskin.

Going Back

Going back ... handling the fragile, browning pages of times past, you find that Princeton hasn't changed as much as you might think. Of course, you can't buy a "comfortable, well-built, four-bedroom, two-bath" house for $26,500 any more, but then you don't have to settle for two percent interest on a savings account, either.

Yet some things remain: a battle for a by-pass road around Princeton, outrage from residents who don't want commerce or industry near their homes, groups trying to consolidate Borough and Township, the intrusion of national and international events into a small community ...

5 YEARS AGO
August 1973

Stunned by the Planning Board's 9-1 rejection of a parking garage on the lot next to the Public Library, Mayor Robert W. Cawley nevertheless expected agreement with the board on a new garage concept "in three weeks." He added, "I keep looking at when we can break ground."

And then he said: "The central issue is 'do we want the Central Business District to spread?' If it doesn't expand beyond Moore Street, it must go up."

The Rev. Jesse Owens held the first service August 6 in the Nassau Christian Center, corner of Nassau and Chambers. Formerly St. Andrews, the building had been purchased from Nassau Presbyterian for $400,000.

It was only five years ago, but there were no ads for home computers, no ads for stereo earphones to wear while you jog.

Summer audiences were chuckling at "Match Play," a new comedy by Princeton playwright (and Town Topics reviewer) William McCleery. "Sharp one-liners, a good old-fashioned cornball plot, a happy ending," wrote Heller McAlpin (another Town Topics reviewer).

Gypsy moth damage was reported to be the worst in eight years. New Jersey's U.S. Senators Clifford Case and Harrison Williams were working on legislation to protect the Pine Barrens.

The Chamber of Commerce was trying to mobilize support for a Performing Arts Center, and the Jaycees were raising money for a Physical Fitness Trail in Community Park North. The first faded away, the second was a success.

In both Princetons, citizens announced they would run for membership on a new Consolidation Study Commission. Borough: Peter Bearse, Charlotte Gipson, Arthur P. Morgan, William K. Selden, Irv Urken, Nicholas Van Dyke; Township: Jay Bleiman, Margaret Broadwater, Dean Chace, Nancy DiMeglio, James Floyd, Harry Sayen.

He was starting his second year as school superintendent, and Paul Houston said "I think I've had pretty good success trying to create confidence in the schools."

What is life without the New York Times! A New York City newspaper strike hit Princeton's three news services hard, especially because so many of their Princeton subscribers unfairly took their frustration out on the news dealers.

A hot-air balloonist drifted to earth on Lafayette Road and gave police a real puzzle: what charges to file? "Police charges pending" was the tactful report.

The underdog Sweet Jersey Corn upset the Koffee Kup in women's softball. Underdog no longer! Conte's Bar got its second straight title in the Princeton Adult Softball League. And R. Stanley Terhune founder of the orchard that still bears his name, died at the age of 88.

"What's wrong with America today?" asked Town Topics' cover story, the first week in August.

"Watergate, lies about the bombing of Cambodia, wheat deals with Russia: there has been a diminishing of the American way. Inflation, permissiveness, misdirected priorities, lack of communication, embodied by Richard Nixon."

In the informal survey, one respondent replied bitterly to the question: "In one sentence: we have an evil President."

It was hard to get a mortgage. Princeton's two savings-and-loans weren't even accepting applications. Renters in the Borough had a new rent-leveling ordinance, carefully explained by Borough Council member Robert Powell.

Four Borough police were honored by Council and the American Legion for saving the life of 14-year-old Christopher Russo, trapped at the bottom of a swimming pool he'd been cleaning. Honored men were Victor Fasanella, Peter Hanley, William Hunter and William Fitch.

"We think Princeton can be pretty dead" said an ad. Flight Two — its offices were on the second floor of a building — was trying to raise money for a coffeehouse, chiefly for youth. The idea never got above the second floor.

And the school board said its most pressing problem was the future of the high school building: "obsolete and crumbling."

George Petrillo was the new Princeton High School principal. It was moving month for the schools: middle school children moved from their dual campus — Valley Road and Community Park — into John Witherspoon School.

Roma Eterna won its second straight Princeton Youth Baseball Little League championship, defeating Post 76. Dorothy Schoch won the Jim Hultgren Golf Tournament; Dorothy Katz and Marilyn Rosenthal, women's doubles on the tennis courts.

Princeton felt the nationwide meat shortage, traceable to a price freeze. One supermarket manager, pointing to half-empty shelves, said "We're all short — ours not to reason why."

In the Township, Mayor Jay Bleiman hoped for an autumn ground-breaking for Princeton Community Housing's apartments for moderate-income families. (They finally got off the ground — or into it — and became Bunn Drive's Princeton Community Village.)

"Penn Central Transportation Company" announced 16 more locomotive-propelled passenger cars, and the Turnpike opened three new northbound lanes.

The old Borough Hall — a parking area is there now — was torn down, and ground was broken in Lawrence Township for a $20 million

LET'S TALK ABOUT
WATERING YOUR TREES IN SUMMER–
with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates
Trees, especially weakened ones, need a sufficient supply of water during the summer months. Moisture is essential now in those species that are laying down leaf and flower buds for next year.
In caring for their property, home owners will try to aid their trees by watering during critically dry periods. A tree should be watered out at the dripline or outer crown limit and beyond. This is the place where the feeder roots are, and water is absorbed through these tiny roots. If the soil is caked dry, avoid water runoff from a hose by slightly sprinkling the area first. Gradually the moisture will soak down. Let the hose run slowly a few hours over the entire root area.
Arborists have found that trees respond to injections of water and nutrients into the soil, under pressure. According to these tests such injections break up heavily compacted soil and provide extra water to the root area. Tests also show that needed air is carried deeply into the soil and nutrients are added to the tree in the process.
Consider feeding your trees and shrubs in the near future!!! Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for all your tree care needs.

shopping area to be known as Quakerbridge Mall.

Skirts were short, short, SHORT.

The Medical Center was named one of the four teaching institutions in New Jersey.

Parking regulations were announced for the 12th annual Giants-Eagles exhibition game in Palmer Stadium. Dwindling interest and other team commitments later brought an end to this Jaycee fund-raiser.

1968

A leg of lamb was 69 cents a pound ... beef tenderloin, $1.29 ... a four-year-old, nine-room Colonial house cost $44,000 ... eggs were 29 cents a dozen ... a three-speed "genuine English" bike was $39.95 ...

The Nassau Inn had a roast beef buffet — "all you can eat" — for $3.95.

"A town no longer orbiting around the academic calendar," wrote a Town Topics reporter, Princeton's governing bodies carry a normal work load in August.

But still had time to see Steve McQueen and Faye Dunaway in "The Thomas Crown Affair" at the Playhouse or Julie Andrews in "Thoroughly Modern Millie" at the Garden. "Annie Get Your Gun" was at the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing and "Arms and the Man" at Murray Theatre — where it was Summer Intime's company, and not today's NewsStage.

A young Princeton High graduate, fledgling actor and Harvard student named John Lithgow had agreed to direct "As You Like It" for McCarter Theatre, where his father, Arthur, was artistic director.

"Shocked" by events at the Democratic National Convention in Chicago, an 18-year-old who was there, reported that "the fear was unbelieveable."

Another youth, 21-year-old Geoffrey Rake, was beaten by Chicago police and had to have stitches taken in a head wound. Voters who didn't like Nixon, Humphrey or Wallace were invited to meet and form a committee.

Svetlana Alliluyeva, daughter of Josef Stalin, wrote a French friend that she liked living in Princeton very much.

"In Prague when the Russians came", read a headline. They were Dr. and Mrs. Erling Dorf, Dr. and Mrs. Hollis Hedberg and John C. Maxwell. Frank Thompson, Princeton's Congressman, reported to his constituents on the invasion of Czechoslovakia and later, pictured with Princeton Postmaster John R. Dilworth, said there was "hope" for a new post office for Princeton.

That was after the United States Post Office signed a lease for five acres on North Harrison for a new building, and before the protests of residents forced the Post Office to withdraw.

A regular list of Princetonians serving in Vietnam totalled 32 for most of August.

Michael DeMauro, a Hun School junior, received a Carnegie medal and $500 for rescuing five people from drowning off the New Jersey Shore the previous summer. Exactly five years earlier, his father, dentist Peter A. DeMauro Jr., had rescued two teen-agers from drowning at the same location.

About to start his second year as school superintendent, Philip E. McPherson was the overseer of a school population of 5,002 children. (Today's school population is about half of that.) It was the beginning of the third year since Princeton's two districts — Borough and Township — had merged.

For the first time, public school children were going to learn about the part played in American history by blacks. Henry Drewry's "Black Culture in America" committee had done the research. Terminology was still uncertain: in the same issue, a Town Topics reporter wrote about "Negroes."

Allen's, on Nassau, was advertising "Regulation Gym Suits, a regulation dropped several years ago. Today's students wear what they like for gym.

Will Jadwin Gym be finished in time for basketball with Duke University in December? Could be, if it weren't for an ironworkers' strike.

E.R. Squibb & Sons won a court battle; or at least, their opponents lost. Citizens of Lawrence Township, not eager to have Squibb build its world headquarters there, sued the Lawrence Zoning Board — and lost.

"I-95 Battle Continues," wrote Town Topics' headline writer. After Superior Court had upheld the route of I-95 through Hopewell Township, the township vowed to go all the way to the Supreme Court, if necessary to keep the interstate out. This group, unlike the Lawrence group, did prevail. I-95 has been removed from Federal plans.

"Can Trap Rock Expand?" was another headline. A citizens group in Franklin Township protested an Industrial Zone which would allow Trap Rock expansion by 55 acres.

Boys were wearing Nehru jackets like Daddy's. Girls were wearing skimmer dresses, like the wool one mother bought at Nevius Voorhees on Nassau for $30.

On August 28, 200 Princeton residents made the March on Washington for civil rights. They were to hear the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. make his "I have a dream" speech.

Governor Richard J. Hughes approved $2 million for engineering and right-of-way acquisition for — that's right — the Route 92 by-pass around Princeton. "Still to be determined is the exact course of the freeway." "Still to be determined" 20 years later.

"Anguished cries from longtime residents who foresee the loss of Princeton as a little country town ..." Upper Pyne was torn down — it was a half-timbered sibling of Lower Pyne, still standing on Nassau and Witherspoon — to make room for One Palmer Square, designed by Princeton architect Charles K. Agle.

Princeton Hospital was the first of its size in New Jersey to have an Intensive Care Unit. Polio had begun to appear in some communities, and the hospital had a Tuesday clinic — only from 4 to 5 p.m. — for Salk vaccine.

A new School — Stuart Country Day School of the Sacred Heart — announced that it would open September 18. Borough science teacher Larry Ivans — Borough and Township had separate school systems in 1963 — had just directed the first Summer Recreation Program for Princeton. It was offered by the Council of Community Services.

"Should we develop Community Park as a recreation center?" That was the question that occupied a joint meeting of Borough and Township governing bodies one warm August evening. In a few years, they could dip into the new swimming pool to cool off after joint meetings.

And construction!

"Never was there such a summer for building," Four office buildings, on Nassau at 194, 221 and 70, and on Chambers at Number 22. Thompson Court was almost finished.

Plans to build 30 apartments for the elderly on North Harrison — today's Lloyd Terrace — were granted a two-and-one-half-month extension, to the relief of Princeton's Housing Authority.

25 YEARS AGO
1958

The Teen Canteen dances will be held in the Princeton High School parking lot or on the roof of Bamberger's (Epstein's). Boys must wear slacks, not shorts or blue jeans, and dress shirts, not sport shirts. Nobody thought to tell the girls what to wear.

Stanley and Barbara Smoyer beat Martin and Dorothy Katz in the mixed doubles finals.

Sixty-five residents of Clay Street asked the Borough to use the space where the old Borough garage had been for recreation and not for more housing. It is now a basketball court, but residents today wonder whether something else might be better there.

A way must be found to make the public library more comfortable in hot and humid weather, perhaps with a different kind of fan. The library was in Bainbridge House, now the Historical Society's headquarters, next to the Garden Theatre.

After 30 years on Nassau, the YWCA was preparing to close its offices at 202 Nassau, foreshadowing its move to new headquarters on Avalon (Paul Robeson) Place. And the new municipal parking lot on Witherspoon was almost ready.

Postage went up from three to four cents. "The post office has plenty of new stamps," Town Topics assured its readers.

Cantaloupes were 19 cents, and hamburger three pounds for 89. Steak? 89 cents. You could buy a four-bedroom contemporary ranch with dishwasher, rotisserie, wall oven and broiler for $39,900.

"What would the best use be for Princeton Community House?" was the Question of the Week. Library, incomeproducer for the Borough, children's center — and center for contemporary arts, which is closest to what finally happened. This is the Art People Place building.

Frank Sinatra and Natalie Wood were in "Kings Go Forth" and Cary Grant and Ingrid Bergman in "Indiscreet."

"Incongruous!" was the indignant comment, as the Greek revival pillars from a razed mansion were raised on Battlefield Park.

A young composer, junior at Harvard, named John Harbison had his Three Choral Preludes for Brass played at the Princeton Community Band's summer concert. He is now recognized as a top-ranking young American composer.

Educational Testing Service announced August 10 as the probable date for moving out of 20 Nassau and onto a new campus on Rosedale Road.

American troops were sent to — of all places — Lebanon in the summer of 1958. Town Topics saw the "tell-tale signs of a deadly serious world crisis," and Congressman Frank Thompson said the United States must get out as soon as possible.

A photograph in the August 2 issue showed young Princeton Seaman Ronald E. Novak as one of those sent to Lebanon. He later became Business Administrator for Princeton's schools.

"Are American men too domesticated?" a Roving Reporter asked. One reply "There certainly is a trend for American men to do more around the house ..."

And a wrathful citizen wrote: "Who double parks, Should be fed to the sharks."

1953

"Two percent," read the First National Bank ad. "Save now for college, for old-age security."

But down the street at Princeton Savings and Loan, you could get two and one-half.

Arrow shirts were $3.95, and a three-piece sectional sofa was marked down from $229 to $169. Enna Jettick shoes were on sale, too: $7.89, from a regular $9.95.

A 1953 two-door, six-passenger Buick Special — $2,283.

The Community Chest, ancestor of today's United Way, set a goal $7,000 higher than the previous year: a staggering $124,000.

At the Playhouse, Marilyn Monroe and Jane Russell were drawing the customers with "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

An "able young classicist" named Robert F. Goheen, age 34, had just been made director of the National Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. His appointment as President of Princeton University was not far away.

George M. Durner Jr., "Princeton's only paraplegic veteran of World War II," finally got his special house completed, after Princeton Savings and Loan made it possible for him to finish the job.

The new Princeton Shopping Center "will open next spring," was the promise. But "very little is apparent to passersby on North Harrison." The builders said proudly that they were "converting a 33-acre field into a miniature city."

A group of young businessmen began to make plans for a Princeton Jaycee organization. A State Senate candidate, Arthur Lane, stoutly backed a by-pass highway around Princeton.

If you lived on Spruce Street between Chestnut and Moore, you might have signed a petition asking that the name "West Spruce Street" be given to that section. Petitioners lost.

Borough officials happily accepted the gift of 17 acres of the historic Marquand Estate — a gift reportedly worth "more than $50,000" — to be made into a municipal park.

Three cases of polio had been reported. Then a fourth. A seven-year-old was said to be "improved, so that she no longer must be in an iron lung."

Aroused and angry, residents of Hillsborough and Montgomery Townships ("directly north of Princeton," the reporter explained) battled all summer to keep out Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing.

"Montgomery Township residents have now reached a state of open revolt," one news story said.

Various groups supporting consolidation of Borough and Township began meeting throughout the summer. The ensuing battle that fall, culminating in defeat of consolidation in November, made the problems "directly north of Princeton" seem small indeed.

SPORTS In Princeton

THURSDAY IS START Of Men's Softball Finals. The final best-of-three series in the playoff championship of the Princeton Recreation Men's Softball League will start Thursday evening at Community Park.

It will pit Princeton Nautilus, who won the regular season championship, against the winner of the Mike's Tavern-Conte's Bar semi-final playoff series. Natuilus advanced to the final round by defeating Princeton Italian American Sportsmen Club two straight, 3-2, and 13-7.

Nautilus player-coach Jeff Petrone is tempering his team's success so far, pointing out that both Conte's and Mike's are more experienced teams and have participated in playoffs for the title numerous times in recent years. "They have the players who can produce playoff pressure," he said.

Some Nautilus players have been there before as members of other teams, but Petrone adds that the younger players who are playing softball for the first time will have to make an adjustment to handle playoff competition. Petrone predicts it will be a tough championship series which will take three games to decide.

Defense dominated the play in Princeton Nautilus's first game against PIASC, as both teams failed to score until the sixth inning. In the sixth, an error and consecutive singles by Mario Mangone and Tony Pirone gave PIASC a 1-0 lead.

Nautilus scored all its runs in the same inning. Scott Porreca led off with a single and eventually scored on a throwing error. After Jeff Grover reached first on a fielder's choice and Ken Bruvik walked, both advanced on a fly out. Dave Shillaber, the only player in the game with more than one hit, then lined a hit to score Grover and Bruvik with the winning runs.

Excelling on defense for Nautilus were Shillaber, who made a diving catch to save a run, and Brent Robinson, Porreca and Grover. Mario DeVincenczi played a solid game on defense for the losers.

In the second game, Nautilus jumped to a commanding 10-1 lead after three innings and never looked back, although PIASC mounted a rally that fell short when it scored five runs in the sixth inning.

Jim Lennon and Jeff Grover each had three hits in three at bats for Nautilus, Grover scoring two runs and Lennon driving in two. Jack Petrone, Judd Petrone, Pat Kahny and Robinson all contributed two hits each to the Nautilus attack.

Jack Petrone belted a triple and drove in a pair of runs, while Kahny also had a triple and was called out at home on a close play at the plate when he tried to stretch it into a home run. Bruvik plated two runs with a pinch-hit single in the sixth. Grover was the winning pitcher in both games.

For PIASC, the leading hitters were Greg Hamer, Mario Tamasi, Mario DeVincenzi and Jamie Roberston — each rapping two hits. DeVincenzi drove in two of the losers' seven runs.

MIKE'S TAVERN REPEATS As Girl's Softball Champions. Mike's Tavern last week completed its two game sweep of Conte's Bar to win the Princeton Women's Adult Softball League's final round and the playoff championship.

Here's an incredible fact ... Do you realize that when auto race drivers go as fast as 200 miles per hour, as some did in qualifying this year for the Indianapolis-500 mile race, that is equivalent to driving THE LENGTH OF A FOOTBALL FIELD IN JUST OVER ONE SECOND! ... A car traveling 200 miles per hour is going 275 feet a second, and a football field is 100 yards, or 300 feet long, so a car at that speed would go from goal line to goal line in just over one second!

Three cheers for the red, white, and blue ... and S.D.B.'s claim service.

Here's a baseball puzzler ... If a batter hits a ball over the fence but hurts his leg as he runs around the bases, and is unable to reach home plate, does the home run count? ... Under a little-known rule, the answer is yes ... Since the ball is dead, a team may put in a substitute runner — even between bases — to complete the home run.

Surprisingly, no rookie pitcher has been able to win 20 games in a season in big league baseball in almost 30 years ... The last rookie to win 20 games in a season in the majors was Bob Grim in 1954.

The score in the second game was 9-3.

Mike's wasted little time in nailing down its third consecutive crown. It scored four runs in the first inning on five consecutive hits by Grace Durland, Debbie Breithaupt, Dee Pearce, Clare Baxter and Deb Ficarro. Conte's came back with a pair of runs in the same inning, combining an error, Peggy Wood's triple and a single by Connie Clohossey.

Mike's increased its lead by adding a single run in the second and two more in the third on a Conte's error, a double by Ficarro and singles by Sallie Toscano and Karen Parker.

After Conte's added another run in the third on hits by Jackie Rock and Cynthia Lucullo, winning pitcher Lorraine Duthie retired the next 12 Conte's batters in a row en route to a sparkling five-hitter. Dee Pearce's two-run homer in the final inning gave Mike's its final six-run bulge.

Trophy Time Again. Kathy Clarkson of the Princeton Recreation Department in award ceremonies after the game presented Mike's manager, John Leiggi, with first-place trophies for the league and playoff championships and runners-up trophies to Conte's.

During the past three seaons, Mike's Tavern has enjoyed an enviable record of success. Its record in that span, including playoff games, is 45 wins, four losses — a .918 percentage. It has won the Princeton League's regular season and playoff championships all three years and this year was ranked second in Mercer County — second only to Sweet Jersey Corn.

This year, Mike's Most Valuable Player award was won for the third consecutive time by Dee Pearce, who had the team's highest batting average (.659) and the most runs batted in (34). Other consistent hitters for Mike's during the past three seasons have been Breithaupt, Baxter, Durland, Toscano and Fecarro.

THREE-TIME MVP: Dee Pearce of Mike's Tavern has been named the team's Most Valuable Player for the third consecutive year. Story this page.

PRINCETON EDGED In Lacrosse Tournament. The Princeton All Stars were edged, 7-6, by Summit last week in the Garden State Games Lacrosse Festival.

Princeton scored with about 10 seconds remaining to close to within one, but lost a chance for a possible tie when the Summit goalie held the ball without penalty until time expired.

Summit then lost to Montclair which in turn was defeated by Morristown in the finals in the single elimination festival.

Todd Breithaupt paced Princeton against Summit with a pair of goals. Teammates who added one goal apiece were Peter Larsen, Tom Taylor, Rich Drobner and Eric Jensen.

In a second game the same day, Princeton routed the Kean College Alumni Club, 10-2, after jumping to a 4-0 first period lead.

Scott Waterman with a pair of goals led nine players who scored for the Princeton club. Scoring single goals were Jeff Henkel, Tim Sheehan, Pat Sheehan, Eric Jensen, Bob Campbell, Jim DeLang, Bill Whittaker and Bryce Chase Jr. Those credited with assists were Peter Larsen (2), Peter Scott, Todd Breithaupt, Henkel and Jenson.

PLAINSBORO IS SITE Of Olympic Qualifying Marathon. An Olympic qualifying marathon will be held in Plainsboro, when the Sri Chinmoy Marathon Team holds its fourth annual Plainsboro Marathon on Saturday, September 10. The event, an official Olympic qualifying race, is registered with the NRDC and is TAC and RRCA sanctioned and certified. It starts and finishes at the Wicoff School, Princeton Road, Plainsboro.

The flat course and comprehensive runner services have helped many runners set personal records in previous years. "The course is gorgeous," said Tibor Latincsics, the 1982 winner and course record holder at 2:22:25. "It's flat and fast and has the potential for a very fast marathon." The course winds along well paved country roads, past corn fields and meadows.

Services for runners include time splits, mile markers, water and ERG every mile. Other facilities include a baggage claim area, restroom facilities and a post-race meal. All will remain open until the last runner is in.

There will be five awards in the men's and women's open category (to age 39) and three in the veterans, masters and over-60 categories. There will also be a team trophy for the best team of three or more runners.

Sneaker Factory of Millburn has held the team trophy for the past two years, with a 1-2-3 sweep in 1982, when Tibor Latincsics led teammate Mark Amundson of Bloomfield by five minutes, finishing 2:22:25 to Amundson's 2:27:01. Third place was captured by Jim Nugent of Plainsboro with 2:31:13.

The women's course record is 2:59:01, also set in 1982, by first-time marathoner Suzanne Carden.

Registration forms for the marathon are available in area sports stores, at the Plainsboro Recreation Department or by writing to the Sri Chinmoy Marathon Team, 150-47 87th Ave., Jamaica, N.Y. 11432. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed business size en-

EARNINGS RISE

At Horizon Bancorp. Horizon Bancorp has reported the results for the second quarter of 1983.

Net income for the quarter, which ended June 30, was $4,190,000 compared to $3,699,000 in 1982, an increase of 13 percent. On a per-share basis, the increase was 14 percent from the $0.88 reported in 1982 to $1.00 for 1983. For the six months ended June 30, 1983, compared to 1982, net income increased 23 percent from $1.41 to $1.74 per share.

Horizon Bancorp had total assets of $1,663,138,000 at June 30, 1983 compared to $1,480,366,000 a year ago — an increase of $182,772,000 — or 12 percent. Deposits increased to $1,341,524,000 from $1,153,079,000 a year ago. In addition, net loans were $1,042,675,000 compared to $860,487,000 a year ago — an increase of 21 percent.

According to William J. Shepherd, president and chief executive officer, the primary reasons for the comparative increases for the quarter and six months were that securities gains were realized during the second quarter of 1983. Regular operating earnings were essentially flat, he said.

One reason for this was a narrowing spread, caused by the intake of large amounts of new higher cost deposits, and a more competitive rate structure in most lending areas. Another was the increased provision for loan losses of $2,670,000 for the six months, compared to $1,645,000 in the same period of 1982.

The higher provision for loan losses is a positive factor in the long run, Mr. Shepherd said, because it primarily reflects the bank's success in increasing loan outstandings during the year by 21 percent, not a higher level of doubtful loans. The bank's policy is to keep the reserve for possible loan losses at about 1 percent of net loans outstanding, and it is now at about 1.06 percent."

NEW DIRECTOR NAMED

At St. Lawrence Center. Dr. Bruce Safman has been named medical director and chief of rehabilitation medicine at St. Lawrence Rehabilitation Center in Lawrenceville.

Dr. Safman succeeds William E. Ryan who has served as medical director of St. Lawrence for the past year. Dr. Ryan has returned to his private practice in Hopewell.

Before his appointment at St. Lawrence which took effect on July 6, Dr. Safman was medical director of rehabilitation services in Birmingham, Ala. There, he initiated new programs covering a wide range of rehabilitation problems. As medical director, he established standards for rehabilitation services and headed community relations and staff education.

Dr. Safman founded, and served as medical director for, the East Central Illinois Rehabilitation Center of Mercy Hospital in Urbana, Ill. where he developed programs for patients whose disabilities ranged from cerebral palsy and muscular dystrophy to learning disabilities and problems related to open heart surgery, industrial injury and pain management. He has also served as director of rehabilitation medicine for St. John's Hospital in Springfield, Ill.

Goals of St. Lawrence include expansion of its brain and spinal cord injury programs and services geared to those with muscular disorders, multiple sclerosis, those dealing with cancer related disabilities, arthritis and pediatric disabilities.

Other goals include working with area hospitals to begin rehabilitation consultations while patients are still in local acute-care facilities; establishing the Center as a community resource that provides information and assistance on all matters dealing with the disabled; expanding the Center's academic programs and affiliations with area institutions; and providing the kinds of innovative programs sought by the disabled today such as athletics and sexual therapy.

cial, institutional and industrial construction placed by the firm or designed by the firm, in the most recent fiscal year.

Actually, according to J. Robert Hillier, president, total revenues in 1982 actually declined from 1981. The revenue total for the fiscal year that ended last October, was $7,085,000 — 20 percent from interior design work, 25 percent from construction and 15 percent from public projects.

In an effort to broaden the income base, Hillier acquired a New York-based interior design firm, which has extended the group's visibility in the field of interior design, and has brought in new commissions. The Hillier group has renewed its commitment to Construction Management, and also operates a planning and design office in Tampa.

Founded 17 years ago by Mr. Hillier, the firm has a staff of 100, including 37 registered architects.

SCIENTISTS SOUGHT

By New Research Center.

Ayerst Laboratories has opened a temporary recruiting office at the site of construction of its multi-million-dollar research center in South Brunswick. Ayerst, a pharmaceutical division of American Home Products Corporation, is accepting applications for some 400 jobs.

The company, based in New York City, is hiring organic chemists, analytical chemists, pharmacologists, biochemists, microbiologists, laboratory technicians, and support personnel for office and plant maintenance assignments.

Construction of the new Ayerst Research Center is on schedule, with the facility due to open in stages throughout the fall. Candidates interested in employment with Ayerst, an equal opportunity employer, should write, with resume, to the Personnel Manager, Ayerst Laboratories Research, Inc., CN-8000, Princeton, NJ 08540. In addition, a staff of four is on site to accept applications and resumes from 8:30 to 4:30 weekdays.

The ultramodern 285,000-square-foot complex being erected on almost 175 acres near Princeton will feature four major laboratory departments, a 200-seat seminar hall, several large conference rooms up to 60 seats in capacity, a dining hall to serve 400, and state-of-the-art laboratory equipment.

The new Ayerst Research Center will provide the company with greater opportunity to investigate new products for a variety of illnesses, such as cardiovascular and hormone disorders, depression, sterility, cancer, senility, Parkinsonism, pain, diabetic symptoms, and cholesterol problems.

Also, scientists at the new facility will research new uses for established products, such as INDERAL (R), a beta blocker, used in the treatment of high blook pressure, irregular heart beat, heart-associated chest pain, and migraine headaches, with several other important indications under Food and Drug Administration review.

A TOUCH OF PARIS: Something new at Dockside of Princeton in the Princeton Shopping Center is this outdoor patio where patrons can eat lunch or dinner by ordering a la carte from Dockside's extensive list of seafood delicacies and salads. Specials vary from day to day and on this day owner Flory Toto was offering half a cold lobster with vegetable tortillini salad for $4.99. Mr. Toto reports that he has been pleased with the response. "People really seem to like it and the outdoor atmosphere," he said. Seating is limited to approximately 25.

100 NORDIC WOMEN made a colorful procession up Nassau Street Saturday afternoon. These Swedish women in the front of the march were wearing light blue cotton gowns individually embroidered with doves and flowers and peace symbols. The banner they carry attests to a similar march to Paris in 1981 and from Oslo to Moscow last summer, all in the quest of East-West accord and a stop to nuclear weapon deployment in Europe. The group spent the weekend in Princeton staying with 73 families and spoke at 15 area churches Sunday before departing, on foot, for Washington where they will join the August 27 March for Jobs, Peace and Freedom. (Michaels McMillan photo)

Property Lying Along Proposed Rt. 92 Alignment Trespassed Upon in Unauthorized Survey Work

Who cut a swath through Lawrence Glasberg's back woods, leaving red surveyor's ribbons and reference points on stakes and trees some 50 feet in from the property line? For that matter, who cut a similar swath along the rear of Autumn Hill Reservation?

Mr. Glasberg discovered that underbrush had been evenly cut as if by machine in a path four to five feet wide and extending the full 830-foot width of his property on Sunday evening. Surveyor stakes with irridescent orange ribbons were clustered around an iron pipe marking the property corner, and additional reference points were left on bushes and trees along the path.

Not having authorized any survey work, and not having received any requests for permission to enter his property, which is posted on all sides with no trespassing signs, he was, he says, "absolutely flabbergasted." Because his property line, as well as the Autumn Hill Reservation line, lies on the Princeton-Montgomery Township border where the most recent alignment of Route 92 is proposed, he assumed that the state Department of Transportation was undertaking some preparatory study.

But the DOT stoutly insists that it is not doing any survey work in that area. Not far from the swath, and connected to it by a narrower path, DOT bulldozers have removed large trees on the Montgomery side of the line to create access for a coring rig with which to determine the depth of the diabase.

On Monday morning Mrs. Glasberg asked Township Engineer Robert S. Kiser and a Township police officer to come see for themselves the evidence of trespassing on the Glasberg property and Autumn Hill Reservation. Mr. Kiser says that the crew working the coring rig on the Montgomery side of the line told him that the survey work had been done by Louis Berger and Associates of East Orange, consultants for the DOT on the Route 92 project.

However, representatives of Louis Berger and Associates also stoutly deny that they have been doing any survey work for the DOT in the Princeton-Montgomery area. According to Saul Smith, project manager, the firm is engaged in engineering studies for Route 92 for the DOT but the state is doing its own environmental work.

Russell Stevenson, chief of the Bureau of Project Location at DOT, acknowledged that the coring rig on the Montgomery side of the line belonged to

Princeton High School Omitted From SAT Ranking of N.J. Schools

"We never even knew about the survey until we saw the story in the New York Times," says Princeton's assistant superintendent of schools.

Jamie McKenzie, angry and voluble, exploded this week about a College Entrance Examination Board ranking of secondary schools that doesn't even mention Princeton High School and gives top marks to schools where the combined median score for the 1982 SATs, is lower than Princeton High's.

"We never even saw the survey," Mr. McKenzie said flatly.

"It never reached me," says PHS principal John Sakala. "We would have responded if it had, because every time I have an opportunity to promote Princeton High, I do so."

Princeton High's combined median score for 1982 was 1034, Mr. Sakala said. Tenafly ranked highest of any New Jersey public high school responding to the survey, according to the College Board, with 1021. West Windsor-Plainsboro was high for this area with 1011.

The highest possible score would be 1600 because 800 is the top score in each of the two SAT sections — verbal and mathematics.

The figure of 1034 for Princeton comes from Educational Testing Service, which administers College Board tests, Mr. Sakala said. His own figures show an even higher 1063, a difference apparently due to ETS' system of using categories, according to the principal. He added,

"Since ETS knows the scores, why do a survey?"

The College Board sent the questionnaires to all 480 New Jersey schools, public and private: 304 responded.

"We find offensive the whole horse-race idea," Mr. McKenzie declared, "schools should not be compared solely on the basis of

Witherspoon and John Street Residents Invited to Discuss Use of $85,000 Grant

Everyone who lives in the John Street-Witherspoon Street area is invited this Sunday to a meeting where Borough and state officials will talk about the Borough's $85,000 Neighborhood Preservation Grant.

The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. on the third floor of the Masonic Temple, John and Maclean Streets. Borough Administrator Mark Gordon, Borough Clerk Penelope Carter and Leonard Zuhlcke of the New Jersey Department of Community Affairs, will outline the program.

"We have the money in the pot — what's the best way to spread it around?" is the way Mr. Gordon explains the purpose of the meeting. "It will be just a general discussion, to make people aware of the program. We don't have any specific ideas yet."

At the meeting, residents of the area will learn about the possible income levels of people who might receive loans or grants. Will there be money for complete weatherization, for example, or just for caulking? Who will receive loans, who will receive outright grants?

Officials also want residents to know in advance that there will be a house-to-house survey of the area. This survey will help the Borough to determine specifics, like the number of households and who would receive grants, who would receive loans.

First priority will be given to homes, including those owned by landlords. The Borough has applied, through the county, for another grant which might include commercial properties.

A director, hired by the Borough, will run the program. Deadline for applications was this Wednesday and interviews will begin next week. Among the "eight or nine" applicants, Mr. Gordon says, are people who live in the John-Witherspoon neighborhood, and the municipality hopes it can find a qualified person who does live in John-Witherspoon.
